New York Stock Market Sales. Stock. Allis-Chalmers, & pald.

New York, December 10.—After another severe break which forces quotations to a new low level for the protracted devinward movement, the stock market rakind effectively to-say. The opening was weak, and through the morning there was a steady stream of selling orders, which at times almost demoralized the market. No effective resignance was offered, and stocks were unleaded in increasing volume. Steel sold down to 64%. Prion Pacific to 181 Reading to 185% and Amaignmated to 75% Among the less active issues declines were more severe, extending to fifteen points in Lackawanna and eleven in National Biscuit. The turn in the market came with the hood hour, and prices mounted steadily until Steel, Reading and a number of other important issues showed act gains of a point or more clare before the close the market became heavy, although prices did not relapse to the low point of the day.

The reavery in prices was not regarded as indicative of a market became heavy, although prices did not relapse to the low point of the day.

The reavery in prices was not regarded as indicative of a market change in sentiment. The downward movement, which began on the rendition of the Harriman decision, has cxtended beyond a point to which the influence of that decision may be said to have made itself directly felt, and there has been ascribed to a feeling for uncastness on the part of the security holders, induced by various causes, the William and the pressure. In general terms, the decline has been ascribed to a feeling for uncastness on the part of the security holders, induced by various causes.

Further Drive Made, but Declines Not as Great as on Monday.

IN NATURE OF PURE HYSTERIA

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] New York, December 10.-A further drive was made at the stock market this morning, as nearly everybody ex pected there would be, with the result that in the first hour of business new low prices were recorded, which dis not, however, represent as great de-clines as those accomplished on the preceding day. There was a certain clines as those accomplished on the preceding day. There was a certain amount of additional pressure on the market caused by forced liquidation on the part of speculators was either did not respond to overnight margin calls, or gave orders to sell stocks, and the practical certainty that this procedure would take place was one of the reasons for the renewal of the bear attack.

Transactions in the first hour of Transactions in the first hour of Stock Exchange business were 386,000 shares, or at the rate of over a million and a half shares for the full day. All this seemed to exhaust temporarily the course of the declining movement. A stronger undertone made its appearance in the market.

There was a good deal of new buy-ing for account of investors and specu-lattors who were attracted by the low range of prices, and there was a considerable amount of "short cover-NAVAL STORES

Also there were those who remembered that the reductions of loans that had been effected in Monday's very large decline and in the early part of business to-day was greatly re-enforced the banking position at this centre. There could be little doubt that up to noon leady the curtailment of loans. noon to-day the curtailment of loans for Stock Exchange purposes was as pass great as that which had taken place throughout all of last week, and that throughout all of last week, and that in consequence an addition to the bank surplus ought to be looked for at the end of the week, as great if not greater than that which was disclosed last Saturday. With the surplus thus strengthened, fears as to the ability of the banks to pass over the disbursement period at the end of the month are necessarily minimized. Furthermore, Europe turned up to-day as a buyer of stocks on a pretty large scale. There is never any sure way of esti-sawing through his head from his body and the sumble head from his how the sumble head from his body and the sumble head from his how the head from his how the head from his how the head from his body and the head from his how Boy Lives for Thirteen Days With Punctured Brain.
